Shortly after the fire began, Alfred Beaumont, a fireman, was carrying a hose through the extension when he was caught in a back draught and was unable to gain the street. Covington, Ky., Oct. 23.—Secretary of the Treasury John G. Carlisle made the first of his series of Kentucky speeches here Thursday night in Odd-Fellows' hall, which was crowded to its utmost capacity. He was received with hearty applause when he appeared on the stage. This was followed by vociferous cheers for Bryan from 100 men forming a line in the standing room at the rear of the hall. Secretary Carlisle was interrupted continuously during his speech, and eggs were thrown about the hall, four being thrown upon the platform. The most disorderly scene was the close of the meeting, when hoodlums gathered about the exit, with insulting remarks. There were many noisy people on the street, and in such spirit as to threaten violence as well as insult to the secretary. The chief of police promptly furnished a detachment of twenty police, who safely and quietly escorted Secretary Carlisle to the residence of Frank Helm.

Col. Morrison Is Evasive.

The streets were crowded as on the big Saturday jubilee. The escort committee had not provided for such an outpouring, but the crowds were well ordered.

Women marched in line in great numbers. Maj. McKinley aptly termed this "Ohio day," although Indiana, West Virginia and Pennsylvania were here in organized bodies, or merged into some of the big Ohio delegations. With one party were hundreds of students from Baldwin university and Wallace college of Berea. These were from the extreme northern part of the state. Historic old Marietta awakened memories of Rufus Putnam, Ephraim Cutler, Return J. Meigs, of olden times, and Gen. Buell, Gen. Fearing and Gen. Dawes, three of the most heroic characters Ohio contributed to the civil war.

Thousands came from the distant river counties of the state, in company with hundreds of their West Virginia friends across the river. Valparaiso, Fort Wayne, Plymouth, and a dozen other northern Indiana towns swelled the crowds in the evening. Maj. McKinley gave cordial greeting to the city council and officials of New Brighton, Pa., in his library.

ANDRUS WAS MURDERED.

Coroner Finds Wires Used to Explode the Fatal Bomb.

New York, Oct. 23.—There seems no longer any room for doubt as to the circumstances attending the death of Hamilton J. Andrus, who was blown to pieces in the office of the Arlington Chemical company of Yonkers, of which he was the secretary, Wednesday morning. Coroner Miles stated that thirty-eight feet of wire had been taken from under the building in which the explosion of the bomb had occurred, and that, in addition, four dry-cell batteries had been found in or near the building. The coroner thinks the bomb was suspended by a string from the bottom of the shelf desk at which Mr. Andrus was accustomed to stand; that the wires were run from an unoccupied building situated some distance from the office, and up through the floor to the bottom of the desk; that they rested closely against the string, and that, when the current was turned on, the string was burned off and the bomb released. In view of the developments the inquest has been postponed for a week.

VROOMAN TURNED OUT.

Chicago Presbyterian Divine Is Convicted of Heresy.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 23.—Rev. Frank Buffington Vrooman, pastor of the Kenwood Presbyterian church, Chicago, is not a Presbyterian. The commission of twenty-five, to which the whole Vrooman-Chicago presbytery case was referred, under the agreement of last night, reported judgment at midnight Thursday after one hour of deliberation. think the Story Was Made Up to Throw the Officers Off the Scent and Allow the Forger to Make His Escape—State Specials.

Juneau, Wis., Oct. 23.—The sensational telegraphic account sent from Fredericksburg, Va., of the alleged suicide at that place of W. T. Rambusch, the notorious fortune wrecker and bank looter of this place, is not given credence here by those citizens who are most familiar with the character of the absconding defaulter. In truth the general conviction here is that this is simply another attempt to throw the sleuth hounds of the law off the track and trail of this prince of confidence men and marble-hearted villains.

Every day the list of Rambusch's victims receives additions. It seems as if it might be weeks or even months before the extent of his forgeries and swindles and the full list of the unfortunates upon whom he practiced the arts of the bunko steerer will be made known.

THE RECORDER'S FINANCIAL BELIEF BEFORE IT "TURNED ITS COAT"

IT THEN SAID FREE COINAGE WAS A SCHEME FOR ENRICHING A FEW MINE OWNERS.

As a Means of Abolishing the Differences Between the Poor and the Rich, It Was a Monumental Fraud, They Claimed—It Would, They Then Believed, Make the Rich Richer and the Poor Poorer As Prices Would Be Doubled, But the Value of the Goods Would Not Be Increased—The Idea Denounced As But a Shallow Pretense

With each succeeding day the Flip-Flop becomes more rabid in its denunciation of that "conspiracy against the human race," the gold standard. All the Flip-Flop's talk in this strain, is pure froth. The Flip-Flop cannot lay any claim to sincerity. It is a turncoat and a renegade, yet it has the effrontery to advise conscientious voters how to cast their ballots.

On June 21, 1896—but four short months ago—it printed the following article, which The Gazette has published before. It is now reproduced by special request of a democrat, who while he has not said how he will vote, is disgusted with the two-faced position taken by the Flip-Flop. The article was printed at the head of the editorial column, and was as follows:

FREE SILVER.

Would Not Remedy the Unequal Distribution of Wealth.

"It is because of the belief that in some way free coinage would give the poorer classes some of the wealth now in the hands of the rich, that the farmers and workers in some sections of the country have favored the 16 to 1 scheme.

"The shallowness of the pretense that the silver standard would help the poor against the rich, can be seen by considering its results which its advocates claim would follow its adoption. They insist that by measuring value in dollars worth half of a gold dollar the value of all the wealth in the country would be exactly doubled. This is an error arising out of the silverite confusion of value with price. Prices would doubtless be exactly doubled as compared with the fifty cent dollar, but the value of all kinds of goods would not be increased in the slightest degree. Does any farmer think that his implements or his furniture would cliff, in the Wilder school house, last Saturday evening. Many were unable to gain admittance, which was a fact to be deplored, as the speaking was fine, and the music, by the Porter band, a rare treat. On Tuesday evening there was a free talk on silver, in the same place, by some local "dems," but only a small crowd was in attendance. The first snow storm visited us last Monday; although not very severe, it was a gentle reminder of "the one awful snow slide" which will occur week after next, when the free silverites will go under for four long years. A good deal of the tobacco is being bought in this section of the country. Farmers are busy husking corn. A young son put in an appearance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCarthy recently. All are doing well. Miss Anna Leary, of Edgerton, spent Sunday here. A very pleasant party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Casey, Wednesday evening, and a large crowd attended. Miss Maggie Condon, returned to her home in Edgerton, on Monday after a three weeks visit here. Miss Mae Tracy, of the town of Fulton, was the guest of friends a few days last week. Miss Anna Joyce and brother of Fulton, were the guest of friends a few days last week. Miss Anna Joyce and brother, of Edgerton spent Sunday here. Miss Etta Keegan, leaves for York state next week, where she will spend the winter with relatives. Frank Dowse, is home again visiting old friends. Mr. and Mrs. Will Barrett are rejoicing over the arrival of another daughter at their home. All doing finely.

regularly be worth more to him if their nominal price was doubled?

"But even if prices were doubled, how would that help the people who are poor? The man who now has $1,000,000 worth of property would under free silver have $2,000,000 worth. This would benefit him one hundred times as much, so far as prices are concerned, as the man with $10,000 and 1,000 times as much as the man with only $1,000. The men who now have nothing would under free coinage have exactly twice nothing. The gap between the poor man and the millionaire would be just as great as it is now. The laborer, who has no goods to sell, would find that the prices of all his food and clothing were twice as high, while any increase of wages would come slowly if at all. In compelling the masses to pay higher prices for all they consume, while doubling the price of the property of the wealthy classes, free silver would make the rich richer and the poor poorer.

"Free coinage as a scheme for enriching the owners of a few silver mines and getting offices for calamity howling politicians may be a great success. As a means of abolishing the differences between the poor and the wealthy classes it is a monumental fraud."

What man who abides by his connection and his belief can have any respect for the Flip-Flop.

Every time the Flip-Flop addresses a voter in behalf of free silver, it insults his manhood.

The American people are great admirers of many principle.

Principle made the Flip-Flop a gold standard advocate.

Policy makes it a silver standard advocate.

Voters which do you want—advice from a paper ruled by principle or advice from a paper ruled by policy?

Mr. Cooper told of the armies of the unemployed that marched on Washington. They were not things of mirth he said, but of inexpressible sadness. Such armies had never marched on Washington and never would march on Washington with a republican president in the White House. The causes of the hard times, when found, bore heavily on the democratic party.

The campaign this year Mr. Cooper insisted was a matter of business and he presented the business side of it calmly and plainly. Taking up the silver question he compared prices—1873 with 1892—and showed how absolutely each change was to be explained by the laws of supply and demand.

Referring to the "crime of 1873" he had supposed everybody knew the falsity of the charge about a British agent spending $500,000 to secure the passage of the demonetization act. No speaker of prominence dared repeat the charge any longer so rare were they of being ridiculed by their hearers; but in small country meetings the British agent story was still doing yeoman service. He heard it in Milton Junction only the night before. Mr. Cooper showed how completely the story was refuted by the Congressional globe, the authority quoted in its support and showed that every shred of backing it was a bare faced forgery.

Every Dollar As Good As Gold. Mr. Cooper said he was a bi-metalist from conviction and hoped to see the day when the mints of the world will be open to the coinage of gold and silver as the republican party Republicans drove fifteen miles to swell Hon. H. A. Cooper's audience last night. They got here early or they never could have found seats. Enough Janesville people turned out to pack the opera house to overflowing.

The Evansville Bicycle club formed Mr. Cooper's escort and made a striking appearance. There were sixty-five wheelmen in line, uniformed in red and blue and carrying torches. They made a handsome appearance as they swung around the Academy street corner and came down Milwaukee street. It was anything but a parade of boys, for out of the sixty-five in line, fifty were voters.

They made a handsome appearance as they swung around the Academy street corner and came down Milwaukee street. It was anything but a parade of boys, for out of the sixty-five in line, fifty were voters.

The opera house was filled long before 8 o'clock. Among those on the stage were:

A. P. Lovejoy, E. F. Hansen, Beloit; A. H. Sheldon, Judge J. W. Sale, W. J. McIntyre, A. A. Jackson, C. E. Kent, C. W. Boies, E. M. Hyzer, J. L. Ford, D. Thrope, Emory Patch, W. A. Jackson, Rev. R. K. Manaton, O. D. Rowe, Major J. H. Sampson, F. S. Winslow, Ashland; S. C. Burnham, O. F. Nowlan, H. J. Cunningham, Hamilton Richardson, W. A. Mayhew, Clinton.

A Campaign For Workingmen. The Glee club sang "We Want You, McKinley," and as the applause died away, Hon. A. P. Lovejoy presented Mr. Cooper to the audience.

Mr. Cooper was received with cheers without wasting time on oratorical embellishments, Mr. Cooper sketched the conditions that made this a workingman's campaign. He pointed out that under republican rule up to 1892 no workingman needed to wait an hour for work.

"I think that I am entirely within the bounds of conservative statement when I say that since that time we have had a change," he remarked, amid laughter and applause.

"You know a change was what they said we must have," he continued. "Well, I have just come from Walworth county, where they raise a good many sheep, and the effect of the change on the sheep raisers is particularly fresh in my mind. The woolen interests of this country, my friends, paid $50,000,000 in the first year of the Wilson bill for the doubtful privilege of having a 'change.' Now tell me, was any man, woman or child in the whole United States benefited by this slaughter of the wool interest?"

Difference of $520,000,000 in Debt. Another "change" the country had experienced was in the size of the national debt. In Harrison's administration $259,000,000 of the debt was paid off. In the last three years on the other hand $261,000,000 more of interest bearing bonds had been issued and before the thirty annual installments of interest on these bonds had been paid the cost to the nation might be put in round numbers at $607,000,000.

There had been a change, unquestionably—a change from business to bankruptcy.

Mr. Cooper told of the armies of the unemployed that marched on Washington. They were not things of mirth he said, but of inexpressible sadness. Such armies had never marched on Washington and never would march on Washington with a republican president in the White House. The causes of the hard times, when found, bore heavily on the democratic party.

to his fellow students. He has been in poor health for several months, consumption being the cause of his death. His parents and brother, Rev. Harvey Knap, have the sympathy of their many Evansville friends. Mrs. Marion Babbitt was called to Brooklyn, Wednesday, by the death of her father, John Dick. Mr. Dick was about eighty-five years old and was a native of Scotland. Harry Austin and Miss Amelia Kleinsmith were married at Brodhead, Oct. 11, by Justice Thompson. Dr. J. M. Evans, Jr., had the misfortune to lose his solid gold watch Monday evening. Any information as to its whereabouts will be most thankfully received. Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuller, October 20, '96, a daughter, mother and child doing well. Emanuel France of Mason City, Ia., is visiting his sister, Maggie France and other relatives. Mrs. Hayner of Janesville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Scoville. The remains of Mrs. William Kingsley were brought here Tuesday morning from Wells, Mich., the home of the deceased. She had been in poor health for the past few years, and her death was not unexpected. The deceased was born in Maine, Dec. 4, 1846, and has been a member of the Methodist church since eleven years of age. She leaves a husband and two young daughters, besides many relatives to mourn the loss of a kind wife and mother. Charles and J. D. Clifford of Madison, and Mrs. Sarah Richards and Mrs. Alvah Marden of Janesville, are brothers and sisters of the deceased. About fifty members of the Eastern Star Lodge went to Janesville, Wednesday evening, to attend a banquet given by the lodge of that city. A most enjoyable time was reported. Mrs. Edward Douglas, of Madison, is visiting relatives here this week. Ralph Smith, of Fort Atkinson, Sunday in this city. Andrew Muldoon, of Chicago, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Charles Spoor. Mrs. Eva Danks and Jennie Allen, of Cooksfield, spent Wednesday in this city with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Burk. Miss Clara Flinn, a former resident of this city, now of Chicago, is the guest of old friends here. Miss Marilla Andrews was elected delegate to the Woman's Literary convention, held in Milwaukee this week. She returned home Thursday afternoon.

PETITION FOR FARM INSTITUTE

Attention is to Make it a Feature of the Midwinter Fair

A petition for a farm institute in Janesville this winter has been left in The Gazette office for signatures. The date is left blank in order that the plans may accord with those for a midwinter fair. All interested in the holding of an institute are requested to leave their names.

There are difficulties in the way of a midwinter fair, and this part of the plan is by no means certain. In the first place a suitable building is yet to be found; then there is the necessity for much labor in securing premiums and providing money. As no admission fee or entry fee is charged the funds must be provided by private subscription.

BIG FLAG FOR THE C. & N. W. SHOPS.

Old Glory Will Wave Over the Janesville Shops of the Northwestern.

The employees of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway shops, in this city, are about to unfurl "Old Glory" over their shops. The flag will be of bunting, the best that can be obtained in Chicago, and will be mounted on a staff over the water plant, the top of which will be seventy-five feet above the ground, where it can be seen from almost any part of the city. The flag to be raised, with its mountings, will in all be the finest in the city.

W. H. Whalen, the master mechanic of the shops, is a standard man. He believes in elevating things; his personal appearance denotes that. He generally puts things high but his men reach the mark and are a happy, industrious and contented lot of workmen. It is pleasant to go through these shops and see the work going on there. Mr. Whalen has a sand plant in operation, one of his own introduction, which is marvelous. He has educated the sand to follow the air in a natural way.

Under Mr. Whalen's management, the Janesville shops in its compared proportions, in men, appearances, despatching of business, etc., is right up to the Chicago & Northwestern standard, and ranks with the foremost on the Northwestern system. The flag will be thrown heavenward some day the coming week. The boys say it will be cheerful to work under; a substantial emblem to live under, and a pleasant ensign to die under. "Long may it wave."

A motto for working men and women:

"A dollar's worth of dollar for a dollar's worth of work."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1641—Uprising of the oppressed Irish. About 50,000 English were slain in a few weeks.

The outbreak began in Ulster and extended to all parts of the island. Dublin narrowly escaped falling into the hands of the insurrectionists. A church authority declared the massacre "one of the most cruel and barbarous that have been recorded among Christians, both on account of its duration and the fury of those who were the authors of it."

1730—Anne Oldfield, famous actress, died in London.

1773—Francis Jeffrey, famous Scotch critic, was born in Edinburgh; died 1850. Jeffrey conducted the Edinburgh Review for 26 years. The famous poets of the period,

Scott, Byron, Coleridge, Wordsworth,

Moore and others, were severely criticised

by him.

1842—Frederich Heinrich Wilhelm Gessenius, noted German oriental scholar, died; born 1786.

1872—Theophile Gautier, French dramatist and journalist, died at Paris; born 1811.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Wheat has gone up 21 cents in the last four weeks, and silver has gone down 5 cents. But wheat is not the only staple that is giving the lie to free coinage theorists. The latest issue of "Bradstreet's" has a table showing that barley, rye, oats, cattle, horses, cotton, wool, hogs, lard, cheese and an immense number of other products have gone up in the past few weeks and are still rising. There is an advance along nearly the entire line. Almost everything which the farmer has to sell brings him a higher price than it did when the Bryanite canvass started.

About the only article in the market which slumps is silver. It makes a trifling advance occasionally, but always after a day or two drops back to the low level from which it started or goes down farther.

It is hard to understand how this delusion about the alleged connection between silver and wheat gained credence anywhere. According to the Bryanites silver demonetization in 1873 caused the drop in wheat.

Census figures show that it was not during the five years preceding 1873, but from 1877 to 1882 that we received the highest average price for wheat (per bushel, $1.1934). Wheat, that is to say, was higher long after silver demonetization took place than it was at that time or previously.

Changes in supply or demand are what cause the fluctuations of wheat just as of every other commodity. The advance of the last month will add $300,000 000 to the income of western farmers but it will profit them more than that if it ches them the emptigrounds for b that a thing will occur he will not allow another man to taunt him with offer to bet 4 or 5 to 1 that it will not occur, as the popocrats are now doing.

Speaking of the coercion of working men, Bryan and his followers are cooing them to support McKinley by proposing to reduce the purchasing power of their dollars without increasing the number of dollars they will receive for their labor. That's the only coercion we know anything about.

Such is fame! Two years ago Attorney James L. O'Connor was known throughout the state. The roster case must have made his old friends anxious to forget him, for the Recorder today couldn't even recall his given name and re-christened him John.

Evansville wheelmen made a fine appearance in the parade last night. There were sixty-five in line and fifty were voters—voters whose ballots will help swell the McKinley majority.

Bryan seems to think that the same sort of advice he gives voters will not do for newboys. He advised Detroit newboys to always respect the rights of others.

The free silver Moses may utilize his free advertising and at the same time carry out one of his ambitions by becoming an actor, after election.

CAMPAIGN NOTES.

If you believe that the dollar in your pocket really buys too much you can consistently vote for Mr. Bryan, who says it does.

Financially Colonel Ingersoll's ideas of redemption are sound.

From casual remarks which he has dropped lately Tom Watson evidently imagines that he is still running for something or other.

The men who talk loudest on the street corners for "free silver" are those who never saved a dollar under the best financial system this country ever had, and who would not earn a dollar under any system.

If Chairman Jones is to be believed Chairman Hanna broke all previous records in the Chicago day parade. No campaign manager ever succeeded before in coercing 100,000 Chicago workmen and forcing them into a parade against their wishes.

McKinley has a majority of $8 to 1 in banners across Broadway, New York.

The Bryan crowd started out in the campaign with the boast that they had got the farmers. When Vermont voted some of them must have got away. Vermont has 273 members of her legislature, 126 of whom are farmers, and all of them Republicans and dead set against free silver.

Germany has produced in one year over 1,213,000 tons of sugar, while the United States has produced only 22,000. Is it not worth while for us to develop that industry?

Truth compels the acknowledgment that the popocrat attempt to lug Bismarck into this campaign has completely fizzled. Bismarck simply refused to be lugged.

Day by day it is becoming clearer that Mr. Bryan knew just what he was talking about when he said he would never take a second term as president.

One man fell dead in West Virginia this week after listening to a speech from William J. Bryan.

Events have progressed far enough to show that the difference between Bryan and McKinley is simply the difference between boyish oratory and manly action.

Chairman Jones of the Popocratic national committee has issued another proclamation warning the workmen that they will be slaves if McKinley is elected. The way Jones talks indicates that the fool killer has gone fishing and left affairs in charge of an office boy who doesn't know the first principles of his business.

Bryan's logic runs about this way: The workingman can get more work by getting more money and he can get more money by getting more work; he can get more work by starting in to get a dollar, and he can start in to get a dollar by starting in to get more work.

"If McKinley and goldbugger win, hell will be on top and it will rain ashes and Lucifer matches in this country for four years to come," is a very forcible argument from Senator Stewart's Silver Knight that is going the rounds of the Popocrat press. (The Silver Knight is the great national free silver organ, and Senator Stewart is the multimillionaire silver king who employs rat printers at $9 a week.)

The lady of whom the San Francisco Post speaks as having filled a lot of skins with air, selling them to a credulous man for sausages, must have been attending Mr. Bryan's meetings. Enough wind, and to spare, is generated there to make some people believe that unlimited quantities of silver worth fifty-three cents can be inflated into one dollar. Air sausages can be made there by the mile.

The belief of the popocrats in Bryan's election would carry more weight if they did not require such big odds from those who wish to wager against it. If a man has good

OHIO DELEGATIONS GATHER AT CANTON.

At noon he held a reception and later he drove to McKinley club headquarters, where elaborate preparations had been made to receive him. A crowd of more than 5,000 blocked the streets about the hall, which was also thronged. The speaker was enthusiastically received. Later Mr. Reed went over to East St. Louis, where he spoke at length to a large crowd of workingmen and business men.

Austrian Scientists Murdered.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 23.—Details of a massacre on the Solomon Islands were brought up from the south seas by the Oceanic Steamship company's mail steamer Monowal. The victims of the bloodthirsty savages were members of a party of Australians which had been taken to the islands by the Austrian man-of-war Albatross. It was under the leadership of Henry Baron Foulton Von Norbeck, an Austrian scientist, who has visited many groups of islands in the south seas and had numerous exciting experiences with the natives.

Tom Cooper Breaks a Record.

Memphis, Oct. 23.—The Memphis Coliseum bicycle races began Thursday. The track promises to be one of the fastest in the country, as Tom Cooper smashed a world's record to-night. The Detroit boy went against the world's unpaced quarter-mile record and succeeded in lowering it one-fifth of a second. His time was 0:25 2-5, the previous record being 0:25 3-5, held by Con Baker and Johnson.

Dr. Tanner No More.

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The second victim of the fire which destroyed the large pottery plant of the Whitmore-Robinson company here early Wednesday morning is now known to be Dr. Tanner, whose right name was Francis Harrison, whose name was made famous by a long fast in which he once indulged.

NO SILVER TALKER HAS LOST HIS JOB

C. & N. W. MEN INDIGNANT
OVER FALSE REPORTS.

Attempt By Popocrats to Bolster the Charge Of "Coercion" By a Janesville Instance Awakens Protests From Democrats and Republicans Alike—Foreman Whalen's Denial.

Democrats have talked about "coercion" so much this year, that people might naturally ask for proof.

With such a wealth of assertion, there ought to go a little evidence.

It must have been a realization of this that led the Recorder to cook up this paragraph:

It is reported that a local machinist in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company was discharged for talking free silver, but it is also stated that a gentleman was present when the order came to discharge the machinist, and he offered the free silver man a position at $2.50 a day.

A very few minutes' inquiry this morning, demonstrated that the story was not only untrue, but that it lacked even a shadow of resemblance to the truth.

Not only did a dozen men deny the truth of the story, but Foreman Whalen, before his departure for Chicago this afternoon, sent The Gazette the following statement:

Recorder shows Poor Taste.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—The statement printed in the Recorder this morning, relative to a machinist being dismissed for voicing himself in favor of free silver is untrue and misleading. It also does the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company and its officers a great injustice. In fact there has not been a machinist in these shops dismissed for over a year, and this department, as well as all other departments of this company, is made up of competent gentlemen who think, act and talk as they see fit on the present financial question.

It is other than the policy of the company to coerce their men in any way in matters of this kind. It was recently found necessary to dismiss an employe of another department, but for causes other than those of expressing his political views. I think this statement is due to the citizens of this city, and I wish to say that I think it very poor taste on the Recorder in trying to make political capital out of matters of this kind. Yours truly,

W. H. WHALEN.

Foreman.

There are silver men in the Janesville shops of the Chicago & Northwestern—several of them—and they talk silver as ardently as the great majority of railroad men this year talk gold. Not one of them has lost his job, however, and not one of them has the least fear.

Discharged Man a Republican.

"There has not been a machinist discharged from the shops in three months," said a democrat who has been with the Chicago & Northwestern company for many years, to a Gazette man today. "A carpenter lost his place not long ago, but he was a man who had caused trouble for a long time through neglecting his work and failing to pay his debts. The presentation of a $15 saloon bill to the company for collection, was the last of a number of circumstances that led to his discharge. Instead of seeking a chance to discharge him, Foreman Whalen had, to my personal knowledge, tried for a month, to brace him up and keep him in the shops. As to his political belief, he is not a democrat but a thick-and-thin republican, and would be the last man to claim that he was discharged for political reasons. His discharge is the only one that has taken place for a long time, however, so it is evidently the one the Recorder means. The men around the shop are all indignant over the report."

WHERE IS 'REDDY' GERRITY?

Oshkosh People Stirred Up Because He Doesn't Come Home.

Oshkosh people are worried because "Reddy" Gerrity, the well known horseman, is missing. An Oshkosh dispatch says: "Anxiety is felt here regarding J. O. Gerrity, the well known horseman and driver. At Lexington, Ky., last Saturday, with Squeez, owned by G. W. Garrett of Milwaukee, Gerrity won the $2,000 Johnston stake in three straight heats and nothing has been heard of him since. Squeez arrived home in due time and Gerrity was expected Sunday night, having left Lexington at the same time as the horse. He had about $3,000 on his person."

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 22.—[Special]

—There is nothing known here of J. O. Gerrity, driver of Squeez, winner of the Johnston stake on the last day of the Lexington trotting meeting. Gerrity shipped his horses to Oshkosh, Wis. on Sunday morning, and left here at noon himself, supposedly for home. Secretary Ed A. Tipton was asked tonight regarding the report that Gerrity had disappeared immediately after getting the money of the stake, and said: "I sent G. W. Garrett, owner of the horse, a check for $1,000 last Monday, the check could not more than have reached him by this time. Gerrity got no money."

Gerrity is well known here, he having raced at all the Janesville meetings for some years back.

ROBERT G. INGERSOLL TO LECTURE HERE

WILL BE AT MYERS GRAND ON NOVEMBER 16.

Will Deliver His Now Famous Anti-Orthodox Discourse Entitled "The Bible"—Lecture Differs Radically From His Previous Address—Handles the "as Book a Whole."

Robert G. Ingersoll will appear before a Janesville audience at Myers' opera house, Monday evening, November 16, when he will deliver his now famous anti-orthodox discourse entitled "The Bible."

In this lecture, for the first time, Colonel Ingersoll attacks the bible as a whole, starting with Genesis and finishing with Revelations. It is in marked distinction to his previous lectures upon kindred subjects in its seriousness of thought. He aims to appear as the scholar rather than the orator. The theme of the lecture is that in the nature of things there can be no evidence to establish the claim of inspiration. In denying the divinity of Christ, Colonel Ingersoll lays much stress upon the point that if Christ was God he would not have died, leaving the world in misery and doubt, but he did so die because he was simply a human being and did not know the future. The New York Advertiser, in a long review of the initial delivery of this lecture in New York, said:

"The Colonel was in his happiest mood, and from start to end he swayed his audience at will. Peals of laughter followed each of the hosts of witty sallies, and throughout the lecture applause was generously frequent. It was the first time he had ever tackled the Bible as a whole. Comparing the administration of Jehovah with that of Grover Cleveland he carried the house by storm with his quiet comment that 'even in the light of recent elections, it was a greater failure.'"

DEATH ENDS EARTHLY WOES

Grace Vanhise.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vanhise of the town of Plymouth, are called upon to bear a sorrow, the depth of which only those who have passed through the ordeal can realize—the death of a beloved child. Grace, their youngest little one, passed to the great beyond this morning, after three weeks illness, aged one year and nine months. Pneumonia and whooping cough were the causes of death, and the funeral will be held from the home at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The interment will be made in the town of Janesville cemetery.

The Gay Little Canoe.

Boating of every sort is, after all, the most enjoyable and healthful of summer sports, and for real, rollicking, exciting fun the summer girl has decided that nothing compares with canoeing. The canoe itself is a fascinating, bewitching little craft in its beauty and gracefulness, and appeals to a woman's aesthetic sensibilities as no other boat can.

Then one is so independent in her little open or decked canoe, although there is plenty to do, both for head and hands. She must act as crew, captain, pilot and ballast. She must look out for squalls, boats, driftwood and waves.

The canoe of which the maiden of '96 makes a selection weighs eighteen pounds, is 10½ feet in length, has a 26-inch beam, is made of cedar, with oak ribs, and will carry eighty pounds and one's "duffle"—i. e., kit of few personal belongings.

It costs $65, and can be transported as freight for $5 within a distance of 150 miles.—Ex.

The Blessings of Silver.

If Mexico is such a bonanza country why do not more of our people go there to do business and why do not more of our traders and merchants sell in that market? The answer is simple. They prefer the comforts of American life and the prices they can obtain at home in American money. It is only a half civilized people who can exist where a depreciated standard rules. The Mexican workman cannot afford more than once a month, but he has the blessings of silver.—Minneapolis Tribune.

GOLF CLUB WILL INCORPORATE.

Players Decide to Organize Under the State Law—Party Planned.

Janesville golfers will incorporate. A meeting of the St. Louis club was held in Smith & Pierce's office last night, President Alexander Galbraith, in the chair. About twenty were present. It was decided that the club incorporate under the laws of the state as an organization without capital stock. The initiation fee was placed at $1.00 and the annual dues $4.00, payable semi-annually—$2.00 payable December 1, and $2.00 June 1, of each year.

Ladies will be admitted as members by paying $1.00 initiation fee, with no annual dues, and to be entitled to all privileges of the regular members.

A committee of three was appointed by the chairman on organization as follows: Chas. E. Pierce, J. C. Wilmarth and J. P. Baker. On motion the chair appointed a committee consisting of A. Schaller, Ed Fifield and C. N. Vankirk to arrange for a dancing party and make all arrangements. The meeting then adjourned to Tuesday evening at the same time and place to perfect the organization.

Free Silver and Employment.

What do working men, what do wage earners expect from free silver? If they are out of work now, do they think it will give them work? If they have work now, do they imagine it will keep them from being thrown out of work in the future? If they are getting no wages, do they look for wages under free silver? And if they are getting wages do they expect better wages if Mr. Bryan is elected?

There is no commoner fallacy in the present campaign than that free silver will bring more money and that more money will bring more work. The silverites have from the first made a special effort to spread this delusion among workingmen. It is their most tempting bait, and has got concealed in their most dangerous hook. Those who were so quick to jump at it now begin to realize how badly they were fooled.

If free silver is going to drive $500,000,000 in gold out of the country, how will it make more money? And if it is not going to drive the gold out of circulation, but will really make more money, how will that make more work unless the money is put into circulation? The money that pays wages is active not idle capital. And if capital is not active now, and is made idle chiefly because the country is threatened with free silver, what ground is there to hope that free silver as an actuality will not lock up still more capital and thereby further rob workingmen of employment instead of giving it to them?

What is needed in this country is not more money but more circulation of the money that we have. Then, and not till then, will there be more work. But there will not be this increased circulation as long as free silver is a menace to credit and a millstone around the neck of enterprise.—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

FOOLED THE JUDGE.

A Successful Ruse to Save a Condemned Murderer.

"Some years ago I was on the bench in a Nebraska circuit," said Judge A. R. Simmons, of Omaha.

"A murder was committed under rather peculiar circumstances. A man named Bill Chadwick and a man named Tom Plummer were enemies, and had been for some time, each having threatened the life of the other. A reconciliation was effected, and one day the two men went hunting together. Plummer returned alone, and said he had bought Chadwick's horse and the latter had gone to Kansas.

"Considerable suspicion existed, but Chadwick had no relatives, and there was no way of disproving the story. Several months later the bones of a man were found where it was known Chadwick and Plummer had been together on the day the former disappeared. By means of the boots and a peculiarity of the teeth the remains were identified as those of Chadwick. Plummer was arrested, tried, condemned and sentenced to be hanged.

"Three or four days before the time fixed for the execution a man entered my office and saluted me:

"How'dy, judge."

"How are you," I answered. "What can I do for you?"

"I reckoned you'd know me," he said. "I'm Bill Chadwick. The feller Tom Plummer was convicted of killin'."

"I was naturally greatly surprised, and somewhat doubtful as to the truth of his story. But he stuck to it under the most rigid cross-examination.

"I don't like Tom none too well," he said, "but I sold him the horse all right, and I went to Kansas. I didn't hear about the trial 'til after it was over, so when I did hear, I thought it would be a shame to let Tom hang, and I came back."

"I took the man to the prosecuting attorney, who had known Chadwick slightly, and he identified the man as the one supposed to be murdered. We took the first train to Lincoln, reaching there just in time to secure the pardon for Plummer.

"Both Plummer and Chadwick disappeared as soon as the former was released, and I had ceased to think about the strange affair, when I changed circuits with another judge and while sitting in the hotel I saw Chadwick pass. I called the landlord's attention to him, and asked if Chadwick lived there.

"Bill Chadwick? No, he don't live anywhere. He's dead. That man's name is Plummer. He does look enough like Chadwick to pass for him. His brother was the man who killed Chadwick, and then got pardoned some way or other, I don't know how." And I did not tell him."—Washington Star.

The Bedawin of the Desert.

"A Bedawin and his mare are inseparable. When he pays a call away from his camp he rides. On foot the man is useless, but his seat on horseback is firm and sure. The saddle is a piece of wood covered with leather or skin, fitting closely to the back, adjusted by a padding of felt, on the top of which, both front and back, is a peak. Between these peaks the man sits with his legs slightly turned under the horse, as the stirrups are fastened lower than on our saddles, so as to enable the rider to feel the flanks of his horse and guide his steed with his knees, or raise himself to handle his spear in the fight. No bit enters the horse's mouth—a halter of twisted wool or hair, spun for the purpose, answers for bridle and tether. The use of this simple contrivance is wonderful, and the control over the horse not less remarkable. The animal seems to understand the intentions of its master. This is due to constant exercise and the intimate association with the family, for the horse is always kept saddled close to the tent, where it is the pet of the children and treated with more kindness than the wife. Thus an attachment and understanding spring up that can scarcely exist where the horse and rider occupy two separate apartments. Marvellous feats of horsemanship are of common occurrence. "I have seen," says a recent traveler, "a Bedawin ride at full speed down a hill, without any apparent effort, turn his horse in its own length, and even stop dead, and instantly turn and gallop off in the opposite direction. In their frolicsome moods the tribesmen are very playful and fond of games on horseback, one of which, a very popular one, which in pure recklessness exceeds all others, is the lashing of one another across the face with the long halter and avoiding at the same time a return blow. When a dozen men are engaged in this sport only an expert rider could keep his seat in the melee."

The Sea Gull Eats Sparrows.

A sea gull was recently seen to seize a sparrow in St. James' park, London, which it quickly took to the water. The bird then deliberately drowned the sparrow, dipping it in, over and over again, till the poor little body hung limply down with every vestige of life fled, and then with one gulp it was swallowed, while a companion gull screamed and flapped its wings, probably wishing it had been equally lucky.

Higher Speeds of the Future.

Prof. Elihu Thomson declared in a lecture recently delivered by him that much higher speeds than can now be obtained with steam locomotives are to be expected by means of electricity, and he considers from 100 to even 150 miles an hour possible.

We want the ladies to inspect our line of

Fall and Winter Shoes

and compare the prices and quality with others and we are sure you will be convinced that we are doing business on the right principle and giving more for the money than any other shoe house in the city.

It Pays To Talk about the Shoes you are thinking about buying before you use the words "I'll take that pair." It pays to talk about the leather that goes into the uppers, the soles, the heels, the counters, &c., the kind of thread they are sewed with, the linings, and all the details of the shoe.

We Know Something about these matters and we talk them over with you so you can understand what you are buying. Customers relying wholly on their own judgment often make mistakes. The old saying "two heads are better than one one" is true in Shoe matters as well as in anything else.

While we are instructing you on how our Shoes are made we can also show you that our prices are more than right---that

We are giving Lower Prices

THE SPELLING CLASS.

Stand up, ye spellers, now and spell,
Since spelling matches are the rage.
Diphtheria, slyzy and gauge,
Or take some simple word, as chilly
Or Willie or the gardenilly.
To spell such words as syllogism
And laichrymose and synchronism
And pentateuch and saccharine,
Apocrypha and calendine,
Lactiferous and ceetly,
Jejeune and homeopathy,
Paralysis and chloroform,
Rhinoecrosis and pachyderm,
Metempsychosis, gherkins, basque,
It is certainly no easy task.
Kaleidoscope and Tennessee,
Kamchatka and dispensary
Would make some spellers colicky.
Diphthong and erysipelas
And etiquette and sassafraz,
Infallible and pyralism,
Allopathy and rheumatism
And cataclysm and beleaguer,
Twelfth, eighteenth, rendezvous, intriguer
And hosts of other words are found
On English and on classic ground.
Thus Bering strait and Michaelmas,
Thermopylae, cordilleras,
Suite, jalap, hemorrhage and Havana,
Cinquillo and ipsecuantha
And Rappahannock, Shenandoah
And Schuyllkill and a thousand more
Are words some first rate spellers miss
In dictionary lands like this.
Nor need one think himself a scroyle
If some of these his efforts foil,
Nor deem himself undone forever
To miss the name of either river—
The Dutteper, Seine or Guadalquivier.

LIZA—A SKETCH.

She was a thin slip of a girl, with pale, hollow cheeks and a figure as fragile as the flowers she carried in her basket. It was her eyes and her hands which marked her off from the common herd. Had these been of regulation pattern, there would have been nothing to distinguish her from any dozen of her companions. But her eyes, which were brown in color, were large and lustrous and had a provoking habit of drooping the lashes when she looked at one. Whether calculated coquetry or native born manner chiefly concerned would have puzzled an expert to decide. That it was "fetching" few men would have ventured to deny. Her hand, small and well shaped, boasted the taper fingers and filbert nails generally associated with birth and breeding.

She sold flowers in Cheapside. Her station was the steps of the Peel statue, and every morning, week in and week out, as the clocks of the city were striking 10 she would deposit her basket at the foot of the column and prepare for the business of the day.

From 10 to 6 she plied her wares diligently, pushing the sale with all the tact which a life's experience had taught her and all the wiles which a woman's wit could suggest. But each evening, when the weary city was fast emptying and the bell of the great cathedral was still echoing overhead, her eye would sweep the long length of crowded asphalt with searching glances, and as she scanned the teeming multitude pouring westward a spot of crimson would suddenly show in the wan, white cheeks and the dark brown orbs would flash and kindle with a curious mystic light.

He always contrived to be in Cheapside between 6 and 6:30. It was their custom to walk together down Queen Victoria street to Blackfriars bridge. At this point they separated—she crossing to the Surrey side, he taking a "turn" through Fleet street and the Strand before following in the same direction. They had commenced the practice in midwinter, had continued it throughout the spring, and now they had reached midsummer.

From afar she could distinguish his barrow among the throng of vehicles which filled the thoroughfare. When he had "doubled" the corner and got into the comparative "slack water" of the churchyard, she crossed over and joined him. A nod that was almost imperceptible, answered by a smile that was bright and sunny, was all the recognition that passed between them.

The girl's glance wandered involuntarily to the barrow. It was the season for cherries, and she noticed the long array of empty baskets.

"Been 'avin a good day, Joe, ain't yer?"

"Middlin like."

"Praps I been givin 'em away." The tone was unmistakably surly.

For the next 30 yards they walked on in silence, the girl watching the man furtively, the man pushing the barrow languidly and staring strenuously at nothing.

"Ha' yet thort on wot I tole yer?" he said presently, as the girl stepped off the pavement to avoid collision with a parcels boy. The light that had lightened them died out of her eyes, the color which had come into her cheeks forsook them, her mouth grew hard, and her face lost at once its youth and animation.

The man continued to stare into vacancy and walk mechanically after his barrow.

"I can't do ut, Joe. I can't do ut. I ain't got no rest these two nights—but I can't do ut."

The words came with difficulty and the voice palpitated with emotion. The man shrugged his shoulders impatiently.

"Wot's the good uv 'im, eh? A dod'r in ole lunatic. Wot's the use uv 'im ter anybody? He orter been dead years ago."

"He's me father, Joe," she murmured reproachfully.

"Father be blowed! He's dun a lot fer yer, ain't he? Y'ort ter feel proud uv 'im, didn't yer? Pinchin his gal's money—drinkin till he's got the 'devils' an talkin 'tommy rot' 'bout bein a genelman an the son uv a genelman. W'y he ain't got no more decency 'an a pig. When he can't gorge hisself no longer, a pig 'ill lie in the swill trough, an when your genelman father's had a skinkful he'll snore by the hour 'longside a quart pot."

He stole a glance at the girl out of the corner of his eye. The busy, bustling life of London eddied round them; the roar of the great Babylon was in their ears; but not Strephon and Chloris in the sweet seclusion of idyllic lanes could have been more oblivious to the passing moment than this pair of city lovers in the hot and crowded streets.

"Praps he ain't as good as he might be. But there's wuss about, an—he warn't always so, Joe."

"Oh, if you likes to put up wiv' 'im, 'Liza, so do! 'Tain't no concern o' mine—is it?" he added moodily.

"I can't sen' 'im to the workus, Joe."

"But yer can sen' me to the devil!" he snapped sharply, and an ugly look leaped out of his eyes.

They passed under the railway bridge which spans the lower end of Queen Victoria street and reached the point where they usually parted. The girl stopped, but the man went on.

"Aren't yer goin ter sell out, Joe?" she queried timidly as he turned in the direction of the river.

"Wot for?"

The tone and the manner puzzled her more than the words.

For a moment they stood confronting each other, the face of the man working convulsively and the girl's features contracted with pain.

Blackfriars bridge was crossed in silence. Turning into Stamford street she whispered hoarsely: "I'm sorry for yer, Joe; but if it's hard on yer it's rough on me. Anything as yer ars'd me to do, Joe—anything as I cud do o' meself like—I'd do ut, mate, without sayin why or wherefore. But sen' the ole man to the workus—I can't do that, lad. I know yer think I orter, but I can't, Joe—I can't do ut."

"A pretty fool yer made o' me now, ain't yer? I giv' up the booze an cut tomnies w'en I tuk up wiv yer, 'Liza, but ye'd see me at blazes suner 'an giv' up that drucken ole wagabone wot lives on yer, an perwents yer havin a man as ud be good to yer."

"It ud break me heart, Joe, ter 'ave 'im die in the workus."

"Yer thinks a bloomin sight more uv a wrong un than yer does uv a right un," said the man savagely.

She gave him a look which must have convinced him of his error, but blinded by passion he refused to see.

"Well," he snarled, "one of uz 'as got ter scoot—him or me. There ain't room fer two."

The girl made no reply and they went on. But silence was too oppressive and stifling. Near Waterloo station the man spoke again.

"How much yer tuk, 'Liza?"

The question was abrupt, but the tone was friendly. It indicated a change of feeling.

"Savin an three."

He extended his hand. She put the money into it without a word.

"Meet me at the Garding in the mornin, 'Liza, and I'll stock the basket for yer," said he, returning her ninepence.

It was a curious transaction, but the explanation was probably to be found in the despairing utterance of the woman.

"He's 'ad 'em awful bad agen, Joe. Lars might it war that dreadful!" She stopped, warned by the cloud that was sweeping up over her companion's brow.

The man's countenance had suddenly darkened, sparks from the nether fires danced in his eyes, the old, hard, vindictive look had returned.

"I wish he may die. I wish he wur dead!" he muttered fiercely.

"Oh, Joe, Joe, if yer love me, dun say thim words," entreated the girl.

"I says 'em cos I loves yer; cos it's on'y 'im wot's a keepin yer from a man as wants ter make a 'appy woman uv yer. I says 'em cos I means 'em. No 'fense ter yer, 'Liza."

"Y'ain't a bad sort, Joe," said the girl, turning her swimming eyes full on him, "but yer a bit down on the ole man." He gave the barrow an unnecessarily vigorous shove.

"I'm goin inter the 'Cut,' 'Liza, ter finish. No. I ain't dun so dusty"—answering the question the girl had put to him half an hour before. "I started 'out wiv a dozen, an this yere's th' on'y one left." He emptied the contents of the basket on the board. "I shall knock 'em in the 'Cut' at freppence. 'Tain't orfen they see cherries like them in New Cut. They're city fruit, they are. Try 'em." He filled a bag and gave it to her. "I'll look roun after I clear out."

As he walked away his eyes followed her. "She thinks a bloomin sight too much, she do, o' that drucken ole scamp, her father," he growled, staring after the retreating figure, "but I ain't all a fool, mate. Grit's wuth gold."

In the third pair back of a tenement house in Lambeth a girl was kneeling by the side of a bed. A paper bag was lying on the coverlet, and some cherries had fallen on the floor. On the bed lay the body of a man. The room reeked with the fumes of whisky. The long, lithe fingers of the girl's right hand were clasped convulsively round the hand of the motionless figure extended on the bed.

"Joel!" she moaned. "Joe, lad, ye've got yer wish. The ole man'll never rile yer any more. I love yer, mate, dearer than life, but it's thim words o' yorn as I shall hear, an not parson's, on the day yer takes me inter church."—St. James Budget.

This is the way the railway man heard the conundrum:

"At what time shortly before noon is it 3 o'clock? At a quarter of 12, because a quarter of 12 is 3."

And this the way he worked it off on his friends:

"At what time shortly before noon is it 3 o'clock? At 11:45, because 11:45 is 3. It doesn't sound right either, blame it, but that's the way I heard it."

A woman never really knows the meaning of happiness and content until she is the mother of a healthy, happy child. The health of the child depends on the health of the mother, both before and after birth. Most all of woman's weakness and particularly the weakness that most strongly influences the health of children, comes from some derangement or disease of the distinctly feminine organs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure all troubles of this nature. It should be taken regularly by every woman during the entire period of gestation. It gives strength to all the organs involved, lessens the pains of childbirth and insures the health of both mother and child.
